

Workshop “Innovation and Digitization of the Justice System”

CALL FOR PAPERS

This workshop provides a multidisciplinary sharing space for research in innovation, digitization, and reorganization of the justice system. The initiative stems from the research project launched by the Italian Ministry of Justice within the PON Governance and Institutional Capacity framework. This project aims to improve the performance of civil justice in Italy through innovative organizational and digital solutions.

This call is designed to provide an opportunity for all Italian teams that have worked on this extensive project to meet and share ideas following the end of the project. The goal is to create synergies and develop possible collaborations based on an overview of the achieved outputs and analyses carried out in the context of the judicial organization.

However, the call for papers is not exclusively reserved for those participating in the PON research project mentioned above. It is open to all contributions to innovation, digitization, and reorganization of courts and, more generally, the justice system in civil law countries such as Italy.

The approach of this workshop is interdisciplinary and studies from all relevant disciplines are welcome, such as management, administration, organization, computer science, legal informatics, social sciences, and law.

Both published papers, papers under review, and papers not yet submitted to journals or other conferences can participate. The recommended paper length is a minimum of 4,000 words and a maximum of 10,000 words, including the reference list. Papers in both Italian and English are welcome.

For all presented papers, publication (with ISBN) in the Conference Proceedings will be proposed. For some papers, publication in a SCOPUS-indexed volume or a Special Issue of a journal will be proposed (more information on the publication plan will be available as soon as possible on the ItAIS2023 website).
